UM FORESTRY PROFESSOR WINS STATE AWARD

MISSOULA --

University of Montana forestry Professor Joel Meier has won the 1985 Honor Award of the Montana Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance (MAHPERD).

Meier, a recreation management specialist, received the association's highest award for distinguished service Oct. 18 at the annual MAHPERD convention in Missoula.

MAHPERD is a professional association of Montana teachers, administrators, coaches and students involved in recreation; dance; athletics; intramurals; health, physical and outdoor education; and related areas.

Meier, who was the 1984-1985 president of the association, has written books and articles on outdoor recreation and is a former senior Fulbright scholar.
